BLOCK DAKOTA LEGISLATURE

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

NORTH DAKOTA'S angry farmers mill around the capital city of Bismark. Governor Langer, idol of the radical Farm Holiday association, has been convicted by a federal court jury of grafting on federal relief funds, and is deposed as governor. Lieutenant Governor Olson rules in his stead—and the Farm Holiday association proposes to do something about it.

3 More Testify to Actor's Spite

They Heard Pat Harman Threaten to Show Up Dave Allen

LOS ANGELES —(P)—Three more witnesses testified Thursday they heard Pat Harman, screen villain, voice threats against Dave Allen, former casting bureau manager, and one of the defendants in the so-called Hollywood "murder" trial. The witnesses by whose testimony the defense seeks to establish the claim of a "frame up" on Allen were Wallace Davis, Los Angeles lawyer; Dr. Robert Lunsen, a dentist and Allen Garcia, who, during his 25 years in the film business has been an actor, director and producer.

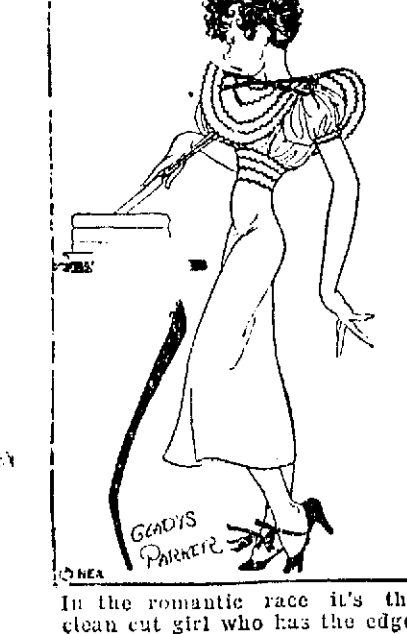

Davis testified the met Harman in the office of Dr. Lunsen May 11 shortly after the indictment of Allen and Gloria Marsh, the other defendant on charges of engaging in an immoral party with June DeLong, the state's star witness. Davis testified Harman at the time said "Allen will soon end a good criminal lawyer."

The lawyer said he asked Harman

Missing Oil Man Not the Amnesia Victim Found Here

Intimate Friend of J. O. Blackshare Makes Trip to Hope

IS STILL MYSTERY

Man Claims to Be West Texan, But Can't Identify Any Texas City

Efforts here Friday failed to identify an amnesia victim held in the county jail as J. O. Blackshare, missing East Texas oil man whose whereabouts have been a mystery to his family for more than two weeks.

Blackshare left his Westlake, Texas home driving a new sedan, ostensibly headed for Shreveport on business. It is believed that he suffered a lapse of memory there of him was at Dallas, Texas. He had been treated in a hospital there and dismissed. Since then his whereabouts have been unknown. Following reports that an amnesia victim had been picked up at Hope, a brother of the missing oil man saw an account of it in a press dispatch and immediately communicated with Hope officers.

Not Blackshare

An intimate friend of Blackshare's came here, viewed the victim and said positively that he was not Blackshare.

Questioned again Friday the victim rubbed his fingers through his hair and said he thought his name was "Chism". He could not remember his given name.

He still maintained that he lived in West Texas, but could give no name of any West Texas town. He could not remember how or when he got to Hope.

Offered cigarettes, the man said he did not use tobacco in any form. He produced a knife, a handle of it worn to the metal, which he said he had possessed for five years.

Field for Identification

Officers said they would continue to hold him in jail, hoping that his memory would return and that he could be identified. Authorities prepared to take his fingerprints as they sought information which might lead to his identification.

Apparently the victim is satisfied in a cell. He sits with his head buried in his hands, trying to think. Officers hope if he remains quiet a rest will restore his memory.

His description: Age about 40. Weight 150 pounds. Height about 6 feet. Gray eyes and black hair.

Heights, Depths of Movie Pay Shown

Shopgirls' Salaries Mingle With Millions of the Great

WASHINGTON — The heights and depths of America's fabulous movie industry were revealed Thursday by Sol A. Rosenblatt, NRA administrator in charge of the movie code.

Listing the salaries paid to the biggest stars and box office favorites, Rosenblatt revealed salaries as big as a king's ransom and wages lower than a shopgirl's.

One star last year drew $315,000 for acting in a single picture. Seven other topnotch box office favorites, two of them drawing $100,000 a week while they worked, had total pay checks last year ranging from $200,000 to $236,250. They were the royalty of the movieland.

But rubbing elbows with them on many a set were "extras" the plebeians of Hollywood, whose average pay last year was $9.34 per job.

As chief of the NRA movie code, Rosenblatt used his disclosures as the basis for arguing that the movie industry must "rationalize" its salaries. He wants stars, directors, technicians, and artists paid a percentage of the box receipts of their pictures instead of the flat fee.

The rest of the workers and executives salaries now being given them, he said, would be reduced to the level of the extras.

Rosenblatt, however, found the salary control measures drafted into the existence of the movie code unworkable. He recommended that their suspension be continued. President Roosevelt suspended these provisions when he proclaimed the code, but rapped the fantastic salaries of stars and movie magnates.

Two actors were paid at the rate of $25,000 per week, the highest wage listed. The two $25,000 stars earned only $91,666 and $76,666 respectively during the year, indicating that they each worked only about three weeks out of the year.

A hundred actors, executives, writers and other nabobs in Hollywood received salaries last year higher than that paid President Roosevelt, $75,000 per year.

Roosevelt, at Hawaii, May Discuss Policies Regarding Asia

Copyright, Associated Press

WASHINGTON. —(P)—President Roosevelt is believed to be contemplating using Hawaii as a forum to declare a doctrine of peace and neighborliness in the Pacific ocean.

The president, now headed for this distant outpost of the United States, will deliver a radio talk at Honolulu July 28, and Washington hears that he may take this opportunity for a general and friendly expression of his views on world problems, and of his eagerness to extend a "good neighbor" policy, throughout the vast Pacific region.

Airship Delivers Mail

ABOARD CRUISER NEW ORLEANS Accompanying President Roosevelt—(P)—The Navy dirigible Macon made contact with the cruiser Houston carrying President Roosevelt to Hawaii 1200 miles off the Pacific coast Thursday.

In a series of spectacular maneuvers by the airship and her planes, papers were dropped aboard the warship.

Heralded by two of the planes which the dirigible carries, the Macon arrived over the Houston shortly after noon. The planes guided the Macon over the Houston.

As the planes flew back into the body of the Macon the president sent the following message to the airship:

"The president compliments you and your planes and your fine performance and excellent navigation. Well done, and thank you for the papers."

The Macon soared away, and within an hour disappeared headed for her base at Sunnydale, Calif., the cruisers Houston and New Orleans, carrying the presidential party and accompanying newspapermen continued on to Hawaii.

While awaiting arrival of the Macon, cruising through alternate sunshine and rain from Sunnydale, Calif., the president worked on a selection of new federal appointments.

He gave particular attention to railroad affairs, to looking over names for the new Federal Mediation Board and the Railroad Retirement Board which will administer the new pension act.

The president received reports of progress of strike negotiations on the West Coast.

The Houston pulled off hurriedly from the New Orleans to head into the sea to steady the ship for an emergency appendicitis operation. The patient was reported in satisfactory condition.

At the request of the mother of an unnamed sailor, Mr. Roosevelt received the seaman and congratulated him on his excellent service record. Members of the presidential party were guests tonight of wardrobe officers who put on a long-planned dinner.

Drouth Survey in State Is Launched

14 Counties Recommended "Emergency"—10 Are "Secondary"

LITTLE ROCK —(P)—An investigation of drouth conditions in western and northwestern Arkansas was started Friday, but relief officials at the Department of Agriculture at Washington had made no designation of emergency counties.

State Director Dyess telegraphed Lawrence Westbrook, assistant national director, recommending that 14 counties be classified as emergency, and 10 others for secondary relief.

Debt Adjustment Group Named for County Farmers

7, Including 2 From Hope, Named on Hempstead Committee

VOLUNTARY ACTION

Starley White, Federal Supervisor, Outlines the Procedure

With its aim as the compromises of differences between farm creditors and debtors, a Hempstead county farm debt adjustment committee was organized here Thursday and will begin functioning at once, according to Starley White, federal supervisor or similar committees in 25 south Arkansas counties.

Members of the committee are: J. Mark Jackson, Route Six, Nashville; S. W. Lane, Route Six, Nashville; Ed Shepperson of Columbus; E. M. Osborn, Hope; J. P. Baker of Washington; Frank Stanley of Hope and F. Y. Trimble of Hope.

Mr. White visits the committees in the 25 counties once each month. Problems of farm creditors or debtors are presented to him and the committee working to "rehabilitate the farmer on his own farm."

One of the main objects of the committee, which has no legal power, is to get the creditors and debtors together to scale down indebtedness to present day values, placing the farmer in position to borrow money to pay off his indebtedness through advantages given him in the Frazier Lend Lease mortgage moratorium act just recently signed by President Roosevelt.

Unified Air Force Opposed in Report

Mitchell Proposal Rejected—But Building of Planes Is Urged

Copyright, Associated Press

WASHINGTON.—Creation of a unified air force—one of the most hotly contested questions in American aeronautical policy—is opposed in the report just made to Secretary Dorn by the special Aviation Committee headed by Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war.

The committee said that its three-months' study of American aviation problems showed the United States was second to no other nation in aeronautics.

The committee said that, since the United States' military and naval aviation have developed to their present status through separate army and navy Air Corps, it would be folly to make a radical change.

More Planes Advocated

The report also said the Army Air Corps lacked sufficient fighting planes for its highest possible wartime efficiency, and recommended immediate construction of more combat and attack planes. The Army Air Corps has between 1,300 and 1,400 serviceable planes.

The Baker committee found the ratio of training, observation, transport and other non-fighting types was so high as to reduce drastically the Air Corps' fighting efficiency.

It is estimated that although the United States has more planes in fighting planes and on an approximate equality with Great Britain.

Strength Compared

The world air powers are estimated to rank: Russia and France, 3,000 planes each; United States (including army and navy), 2,800; Japan, 2,500, and Great Britain, 1,400. The announcement in London today that Great Britain would construct 41 additional squadrons of approximately 500 planes would bring that nation ahead of the United States in air fighting forces.

The recommendation against creation of a unified air force, along the same general line as Great Britain's Royal Air Force, will bring up anew one of the most controversial issues in American aviation.

The Army General Staff has strenuously opposed such a move, as has Secretary Dorn.

500 New British Planes

LONDON.—(P)—Revealing plans for British air defense expansion, made necessary, the government believed, by failure of the powers to agree on disarmament, Stanley Baldwin told the House of Commons Thursday that 41 new squadrons will be created.

Baldwin, lord president of the council and acting prime minister, said that 33 of the squadrons will be added to the home force, bringing the total to 85 and that the others will be for service with the fleet abroad.

The program is to be carried out, he said, in the next five years. Since the average squadron is composed of

Fish Are Dying in Lower Red Lake

45,000 Pounds Estimated Poisoned by Drouth-Soured Moss

Poisoned fish are dying in great numbers on lower Red lake, south-western Hempstead county, it was reported here Friday by Earl Barham, game and fish warden.

Fish, estimated to weigh 45,000 pounds, have died within the past week, due to a long rope-like moss which has turned the water green and poisoned it.

Due to the lack of rain, the lake has dropped below the moss, which turns sour and produces a poison for fish.

Reports have reached the state game and fish commission that fish are dying in large quantities in several sections of Arkansas, due to dying up of ponds, lakes and bays.

Lack of rain has dropped lakes in Nevada county to low points, threatening fish.

Brewster Speaks at Rotary Meet

Axley, of Warren, Dr. Williams, of El Dorado, Are Visitors

The Rev. Thomas Brewster addressed Hope Rotary club Friday noon at Hotel Barlow on the true evaluation of a man, pointing out that not less than five distinct factors enter into it.

The true worth of a man is as intangible, he said, as the value of an artist's masterpiece, which, set in a one-dollar frame still may have the 1/2-million-dollar valuation that the mind of the artist has produced.

The Rev. Mr. Brewster said a man is valued (1) for his worth to himself, (2) to his family, (3) his nation, (4) his church, and (5) his God.

Ed McCorkle, vice-president of the club, presided over the luncheon. Dr. Russell Williams, El Dorado, and O. O. Axley, Warren, were visiting Rotarians.

Mr. Axley, who is supervisor for the Southern Pine association code authority in the states of Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana, recalled that he was married in Hope 33 years ago the 10th of this month, his bride being Lessie Lee Langley, daughter of the late Rev. I. F. Langley, Baptist pastor of Hope at that time.

Dick Watkins, home from a wedding trip to Monterey, Mexico, reported that the Pan-American highway joining the two Americas is complete from Laredo, Texas, to Monterey, but there is a 250-mile gap from Monterey to Mexico City. The Mexican government has 15,000 men at work, expecting to complete the road by next February.

Marine Strikers Routed by Police

Crisis Continues at Seattle, Portland—California Goes to Work

SEATTLE, Wash.—(P)—Massed police using long-range tear-gas guns drove back the gathered longshoremen from two piers here Friday.

Several persons were injured.

By the Associated Press

Men went back to work Friday at San Francisco, with the general strike ended.

Foodstuff flowed again to market, stores and theaters reopened, and industry resumed.

The mass walkout after nearly four days of serious interference with normal life, was called off late Thursday by the general strike committee.

Union labor in Oakland also called off its general strike.

Portland and Seattle, however, saw conditions not so peaceful Friday. The Portland strike committee answered the Oregon governor's action in mobilizing thousands of guardsmen with a decision to call a general strike of troops are moved onto the waterfront there.

Hickman Closely Quizzed in Court

Prosecution Again Covers Case of Woman Alibi Witness

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—(P)—Resuming its attack on Millard Hickman's witness stand in his trial for the murder of Louise Jepperson, the prosecution Thursday turned to the early morning hours May 12 Hickman said he spent with Blanche McKay, blonde "alibi" girl.

Hickman's alibi is that he and Miss McKay were in his apartment at the time of the murder. The middle-aged marine engineer took the stand with a steady state and settled into the chair for the third day of cross-examination about events preceding the finding of the Ogden, (Ut.) girl's body in Golden Gate park May 14 just before dawn.

After getting a denial from Hickman that he had invited Louise Jepperson to his apartment with any intention of keeping her there all night, Prosecutor Peter J. Mullins waded into questions about the time spent with Miss McKay.

Hickman testified that after a gay party lasting most of the night "Tommy" Dee and Miss McKay went home, Miss Jepperson left in a huff 20 minutes after a quarrel, and he then went to Miss McKay's hotel and persuaded her to return to his hotel and remain with him until a late hour Sunday morning. Miss McKay corroborated this.

Thursday's queries went into details of the time with Miss McKay. Courtroom fans dropped their eyes. Hickman turned impatiently to the judge.

"Do I have to answer those questions?" he pleaded.

Then he appealed to his lawyer to get a ruling saying:

"I gave the information in confidence on the promise that it would not be brought in court."

But Judge Lile T. Jacks ruled that the questions must be answered.

Langer's Faction Unable to Obtain Quorum in Senate

Independent Republicans Pledged to Acting-Governor Olson

GUARD IN CAPITOL

Farmers Holiday Association Continues to Be Threatening

BISMARCK, N. D.—(P)—Lieutenant Governor C. H. Olson, acting governor, moved Friday to oust political associates of William Langer from appointive offices as a means of meeting the former governor's move.

Threatened with the complete collapse of their legislative plans unless a senate quorum is obtained, Langer faction leaders made a desperate attempt to build their strength in the upper house.

Only eight more senators are needed for a quorum.

Members of the Independent Republican faction, meeting with Olson, pledged him their support to block a special session.

2,000 Farmers Meet

BISMARCK, N. D.—(P)—North Dakota's legislature assembled in special session here Thursday under a cloud of legal doubt as to its right to convene. National Guardsmen lined the corridors of the new state house while Lieut. Gov. Ole H. Olson took possession of the governor's office. William Langer, ousted governor, had disappeared with his friends and papers.

Acting Governor Guarded

Four National Guardsmen were posted before the hotel rooms of Acting Governor Olson Thursday night following a meeting of Farmers' Holiday Association members before whom Langer made a surprise appearance.

Holiday Association members said that 2,000 of their members are concentrated here "with more coming." The object of the gathering, said Usher L. Burdick, state president of the Holiday group, is to demand "protective farm legislation" from the special session of his legislature. Burdick is a close political ally of Langer.

A remark made by one of the speakers, "not to throw any stones" at Olson's hotel window, led to the military evacuation.

Called to order by Mrs. Minnie D. Craig, speaker, the House adopted a resolution that it was convened in its own right. The senate lacked a quorum but members took the position they were legally convened by virtue of a quorum in the house.

Langer was expected to appear before the legislature, probably Friday.

May Impeach Judges

Wholesale impeachment of state officers, and possibly Supreme Court judges who have held Lieut. Governor Olson was now vested with power of governor, was being considered by the Langer-controlled assemblies.

Two hours after Olson took possession of the governor's office which Langer had refused to relinquish previously when the court ordered him ousted, members of the legislature began to assemble. Olson's taking over was without incident save for his finding a telegram intended for Langer that in Divide county 1,000 Langer supporters were ready to answer the deposed governor's call.

Earlier Adjutant General Earl Sannes had strengthened Olson's position by agreeing to take orders from National Guardsmen, posted by Langer in an effort to maintain himself in office, were withdrawn by Olson as one of his first acts in office.

Olson ordered them out again, however, as a precaution against violence.

In the house 61 of the 113 elected members answered the roll call. In the senate only 18 of the 49 were present. Both assemblies adjourned after brief sessions.

Emergency Declared

A resolution, adopted 53 to 8, by the house held that the assembly was convened on its own initiative as well as pursuant to Langer's special session call and declared "a condition of emergency exists throughout this state concerning the rights, the powers and duties of the governor of this state the lieutenant governor and other state and judicial officers, which is occasioning uncertainty, alarm and may lead to conflict between the citizens of our state concerning their respective powers and duties."

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JANE TERRY comes to New York determined to show her home town, Hartford, and especially AMY JACKSON, that she can make a success of her life. Amy had been her best friend until HOWARD JACKSON broke the engagement Jane had forced upon him and married Amy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVI
"BUT YOU'll play for us, just a little," said Mr. Barney gently. "I know we're due at the meeting, but we can't go without hearing you."

"But I wonder—" began Amy. She did not want to play. She was afraid of the emotion of music to-night.

"Oh please, Amy," said Edgar and Alice seconded him with: "I almost never get a chance to hear you."

"I don't either," said Miss Rosa. "Come along, child. You don't have to be coaxed."

Jane did not want to hear any music. It would simply keep Amy in the limelight still longer, but she must appear generous and amiable before Howard. "Of course Amy must play for us," she said, and made room on the sofa for Howard and Alice to sit beside her and listen. Howard was not looking at her and Prontice took the place. Howard moved over beyond the piano so that he could see Amy's face and be away from everyone else.

She did not ask them what they wanted to hear, but began involuntarily the Frank Prelude with its questioning of man's destiny, its search for the sustenance of faith and hope; then on into the Chorale where these questionings are answered with noble wisdom, immortal grace, and harmony is wrought between human insignificance and human aspiration.

The music reached them all, even Jane, but Jane the least. Jane tried to find it show-offish and solemn. Yet it impressed her and made her ill at ease, and though she rose immediately to go when the music ceased—no more Amy for me to-night, she thought—she was subdued. She couldn't flash about and smile and smile and smile, but majesty still echoed through the room. She was glad to get away. And when Prontice, who insisted on taking her and Miss Rosa home before he went on to the trustees' meeting, began to ask for her address in the city—"I work in Chicago, but I take time off to play in New York, ha ha!"—she told him coolly that her office was in the telephone book and made a mental note to warn Mrs. Andrews that she was out if he called up.

"It was the most agreeable evening I've spent for a long time," said Miss Rosa when Mr. Prontice had left. "But what on earth made me as a professor's wife in Mar-you rush off right away? Amy might have kept on playing for us, even if the rest of them did have to go. I could have stayed there listening to her forever."

JANE was sitting a cigarette in the long jade holder. "Oh, she had to show up at one of the Commencement parties, too," she said. "Someone said so. That wife of Edgar's, I think it was."

"Now, there's a nice little soul!" Miss Rosa exclaimed.

Jane laughed without mirth. "Aunt Rosa, you must be losing your grip. Since when did you begin to think so much of sweet little creatures who keep house nicely and have good manners? You know that girl's a bunny for brains. She's just a— a punilite for Edgar's feeling about Amy, an easy soothing punilite."

Miss Rosa's first impulse was to reply: "You always were peevish because the boys liked Amy better than you," but she repressed it. She had come to be a trifle wary of this competent, assured and ruthless Jane. She wanted to propitiate her. So instead of the gibe about Jane's jealousy, Miss Rosa merely remarked, "Maybe so, maybe so," adding with polite intent. "Well, neither Alice Moreland nor Amy ever had a dress that touched that one you've got on, Jane. It's what I call real style."

Jane shrugged off the compliment. All the style in the world didn't seem to bring her any nearer to what she wanted most.

"Marburg doesn't progress at all," said Jane, going at her subject indirectly. "It's still got the same old standards and ideas."

"What do you want?" asked Miss Rosa. "I must say it's a relief to me to have things go along about the same year after year."

"That's because you're old," said Jane cruelly. "It was a relief to strike at someone. But here, after all, it's a college town, full of young people nine months of the year. It ought to keep up with the times a little."

MISS ROSA might be losing her grip, and she might be anxious to retain Jane's amity, but this was a bit too much. "Oh, be specific," she said. "Where are we so far behind the times? I'm sure we're all organizing for war work, and there are lots of automobiles around. Too many, I think. And we've got all the conveniences and a good many of the discomforts a bigger place would have. Of course, our facades aren't worth mentioning, but that's no deprivation when you look at Hopsonville. Socially people aren't exactly raw, I'd say."

"But they are. Look at that dinner tonight! One maid to serve eight people, making everything terribly slow! And those flowers in the center of the table, and the hostess in a strange old dress that belonged to a museum!"

"Jane," said Miss Rosa slowly, "I thought you were all over your grudge against Amy for marrying Howard. But it sounds as if you still held it."

"Now that's silly. Can you imagine me as a professor's wife in Marburg? That would be funnier than Amy's wedding dress! I'm grateful to Amy for sparing me that. I really am."

"You don't sound grateful. You sound," Miss Rosa continued shrewdly, "as if you had tried to hurt Amy in some way and it hadn't come off. There's nobody we dislike so much as people we'd like to hurt and can't, or people we hate hurt without any reason. It's because it proves they are bigger than we are."

"Oh, dear Aunt Rosa, please don't moralize. It doesn't suit you," Jane remarked. "It might as well go ahead. I believe I'll go back to New York tomorrow. I don't like to be away long. Everything's so unsettled with this stupid war. I wish to heaven I knew how long it's going to last, and what effect it'll have on real estate."

JANE had not intended actually to go to her aunt when she said that Amy was going on to a Commencement party. She had thought it quite possibly true. It was true so much that Amy was supposed to appear at Professor Lowe's and help her mother through an evening with a group of visiting trustees' wives, whose husbands were attending the same meeting to which Barney and Prontice had to go. Howard was needed at Professor Ellert's and he and Barney had left together. Edgar Moreland and Alice lingered.

"Call up your mother and say you can't get rid of us," said Edgar. "She's capable of coping with millions of trustee ladies, but they ever so strange. I don't want to go. Neither does Alice. We want to sit around and have some light-minded talk and have you play us some low-brow stuff, don't we Alice?"

"Yes, and I want some more cake!" said Alice. "It was grand, that cake. I only had half a slice."

"Alice, if you get fat I won't love you," warned Edgar. "Maybe I'd rather eat my cake and lose you."

"You won't lose him," said Amy. "Edgar's an old sticker. I'll see if the kitchen help left any cake, and I'll get some ginger ale and we'll all sit out in the garden and have all the light-minded talk there is. I'd love it."

"No more music?"

"I don't feel up to it after that Frank. I'll play hours for you some other time."

Alice put a slender arm around Amy. "I know. It would be a crime to listen to trash after that."

The garden was sweet and dark and cool. "It was a lovely party," said Alice, arranging her ruffles. "And wasn't Jane a show!"

"I wouldn't have missed seeing her in all her plumage for a farm. She was giving the villagers a treat! She looked very stunning. I must say, but she's the same old Jane—I wouldn't trust her around the corner."

"Don't pay any attention to him, Alice," said Amy. "He's always had a down on Jane."

She spoke half-absently, she was wondering when Howard would come home. (Copyright, 1934, by Sophie Kerr) (To Be Continued.)

School Refunding Is Given Approval

8 District Contracts Allowed by State Education Board

LITTLE ROCK — The State Board of Education, meeting at the capitol Thursday, approved refunding contracts for eight school districts; rejected two, and tightened regulations affecting refunding contracts.

The proposed contract of the Pulaski County Special School District with the Arkansas Municipal Bond Bureau to refund the district's outstanding bonds of $605,000 was approved tentatively, subject to adjustment of minor details concerning maturity dates.

The contract provides for reduction of interest rates to 2 1/2, four, 4 1/2 and five percent on various issues for the next 10 years, after which the contract rates of 4 1/2, 5, 5 1/2 and 6 percent would be resumed for the remainder of the life of the 20-year refunding bonds.

Refunding $64,000 in bonds of the Hot Springs School District by T. J. Raney & Sons, with a reduction of one per cent interest on all issues for five years, after which the contract rates would be resumed, was approved.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart
Foundation Cream Helps Skin Hold Natural Oils

Foundation creams and lotions not only make powder stay on the skin longer, but they serve to protect delicate tissues from the drying effects of sunshine, wind and dust. Unless she has proved to her own satisfaction that he skin looks better without one, every woman needs some kind of a powder base.

Of course, there are a few girls who need no foundation. If you happen to come in that category, invest your money on beauty preparations that you do need. For instance, some skins have enough natural oil to retain powder. And these only look smeared and untidy if a foundation is forced on them. You are your own best judge in such matters—simply try two or three different kinds. If none improves the skin's appearance, omit foundation for a few days and see how that works.

Some of the new foundation creams can be mixed with water or skin tonic. These are often very satisfactory and, in addition, seem to have a cooling effect on the skin. Simply put a little cream in the palm of one hand, pour in a few drops of cold skin tonic and mix well. Then, after rubbing palms together, smooth the cool mixture over the face and neck.

Your Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Pain While Breathing Is A Sign of Pleurisy

Although the infectious chest condition called pleurisy comes most often during cold weather, as do other such conditions of the respiratory tract, you should know, even during these hot summer days, exactly what to do about this in the event of an attack.

Pleurisy is a condition that relates to the membrane covering the lungs and lining the chest cavity. This membrane is called the pleura.

In the chest cavity, ordinarily, the lungs move freely when breathing. If, however, you should feel a sharp pain, during breathing, the pain usually is referred to the pleura. When infection is present, there is swelling, inflammation, and the pouring out of a fluid.

Persons who work under conditions of poor ventilation, or dusty surroundings, or in the presence of other cases of infection of the lungs, are more likely to be affected by pleurisy than are others.

Although it is well established that germs are usually the cause of pleurisy, it is recognized that exposure to the elements, fatigue and exhaustion may give the germs opportunity to invade the body and bring about infection.

You can tell when you get pleurisy by feeling pain with every breath. Breathing is likely to be short, rapid and shallow. You will try to keep the affected side as quiet as possible, tending to lean toward that side and to rest upon it, and in this way keep it more quiet during sleep. People with pleurisy will resent motion of the trunk and frequently will be observed holding the painful side with their hand.

Because of the difficulty in breathing, you also will have a cough that is painful, but which does not bring up sputum.

When a doctor examines a person with pleurisy, he is able to hear with his stethoscope a number of sounds which help him in his diagnosis. One of these sounds is the crackling and rubbing, due to the fact that the pleura is not smooth, and therefore rubs during breathing.

In an attack of pleurisy there are a number of things that you can do to get relief from the pain.

First, of course, is quiet rest in bed. Second comes the application of heat and cold.

Usually an ice bag applied to the painful area gives more relief than does heat. Some persons, however, seem to have greater comfort with the hot application than the cold.

Of course anything that will keep the chest quiet will help relieve the pain.

One of the best methods of keeping the chest quiet is to strap the side concerned with adhesive tape. These straps usually are put on at right angles to the spine.

Scanning New Books

"Spies and the Next War," by Richard W. Rowan, is one of the most quietly terrifying books that seem to show the fabric of civilization splitting wide open and letting the red drop light down into the pit.

Undertaking to tell the next great war, Mr. Rowan winds up by giving us a picture of the next war itself, and the picture is an unspeakable dreadful one.

He suggests to begin with that there probably won't be any formal declaration of war. One side or the other, being ready to shoot and anxious to get the jump on the other fellow, will simply turn a brigade of spies loose on the other side of the border.

These spies will blow up factories, railroads, bridges and highways. They will infect herds of cattle with such diseases as anthrax, bomb food warehouses, fire gas tanks and so on. They will try to have the war about 40 per cent won before the army and the air force can get to work at all.

The army and the air force, of course, will have their own pleasant little games. Bombing and gas attacks will be infinitely more destructive than anything in the World War. The front-line soldiers will probably be actually safer than the women and children back home. The chances are very good that a bacteriological offense will be adopted.

Just what all of this will do to modern civilization, Mr. Rowan does not

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Ways to Revive Near Victims of Drowning

How to revive victims of water accidents is clearly outlined by Olive Roberts Barton in the accompanying article. It is another in her series on Summer Accidents.

It is amazing in this day and age how many people are completely helpless in case of water accidents. Most children swim somewhere nowadays. How different from twenty years ago when most youngsters were afraid to wet their toes.

Children learn rules for first aid these days in school and camp, but comparatively few adults are informed of the processes of getting water out of logged lungs, or encouraging respiration after a near-drowning accident. It is time to learn at least the rudiments of the procedure as there is no time to run for a book when such an event occurs.

Artificial Breathing

If a child is fished out of a creek or pool, to all appearance dead, the first thing to take for granted is that he is no such thing. Shout your lungs out for someone to get the nearest doctor, but act while you can. Pick up the child (if he is small enough) to handle this way) by his feet and shake him to let the water run out of his lungs. Then lay him on the ground, on his stomach, with his head turned to one side and his jaws open. Something soft and flat may be put under his head. Better so. Then take his elbows in your two hands and press them against his ribs, then raising his arms above his head. Repeat the movement regularly to stimulate breathing. This artificial breathing must be done evenly, smoothly and not too fast. About 20 times to the minute. Keep it up and do not get discouraged. The best position for the worker is straddling the patient with both knees on the ground, facing the head. Don't let people crowd around who are not needed to help. Tight clothes or bands should be loosened or cut, but do not lose time fumbling, or talking. Everything must count. His life is hanging on what you do.

Reviving Adults

If the child is older and too big to be picked up by his heels to drain his lungs, use the method practiced with adults. Lay him stomach down on the ground, his face sideways, his arms outstretched and fold a cloth under his chest and abdomen to allow the water to run out of his mouth. If there is no coat don't wait to send for something. Roll up two or three bathing suits or anything handy to give the needed elevation. Do not look for a barrow. There won't be any. Now straddle him or if easier put one knee between his legs. The knees should be even with his hips or nearly so. Then place the palms of your two hands on the small of his back, fingers on ribs; now swing your body forward and press down. Keep elbows stiff. As you bear down your shoulders will be above your hands. Then quickly throw yourself back.

Count a second or so and repeat the gesture. About fifteen times to the minute. It must be done rhythmically and regularly without interruption. When you are tired have someone ready on the instant to take your place without lost motion. Keep your head. Grimly determine that you are going to save that life if it takes hours. It may take one, two or three. Even four hours.

Give a Warm Drink

By the time the doctor gets there the child will have had the needed rest to recovery. You can leave the rest to the doctor. But in case there is no doctor, give the child a drink of something warm and let him rest a long long time. His whole system has had a shock. Don't make him talk.

It pays to practice the motion of pressure. The weight must be on the hands and at the right place. A squeezing but firm and slightly forward pressure that acts as a pump. Be careful, however, that the weight of a heavy adult does not descend too suddenly on a delicate frame. No use curing one thing only to cause other trouble.

NEXT: Scalds and burns.

say. Indeed, he doesn't need to. You can figure that all out for yourself, all too easily.

Saenger Contest Half Completed

Mattie Evans First, With Mrs. O. Williams a Close Second

Again there are changes in the standing of the contestants in the Saenger-Hollywood Tour contest as

Major and Mrs. Edward Woodford and two little daughters of Little Rock arrived Friday to spend the week end with Misses Marie and Nan, nie Purkins.

Miss Nina Carter of Monroe, La., is the house guest of Miss Nancy Ruth Carrigan.

Miss Mary Calvert Franklin, who has had a number of social affairs given in her honor the past few weeks was the honoree at a beautifully appointed evening party, given by Miss Mary Wilson at her home on S. Elm street. The Wilson home was bright and hospitable with a quantity of mid-summer flowers and the young hostess attractively gowned in a dainty evening costume entertained her guests, who also came in evening gowns, at five tables of dominoes.

The favors went to Mary Haynes and Mixie Lou Fuller. Following the game, the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Robert Wilson served refreshing fruit punch with angel's food cake.

The guests for this charming occasion were Nancy Hill, Mixie Lou Fuller, Martha Houston, Mary Haynes, Mary Ann Lile, Marietta Presley, Eudora Hatcher, Margery Diddy, Jean Young, Marie Antonette Williams, Beulah Bell Taylor, Frances Irwin, Eleanor Jane Field, Little Rock, Patricia Williamson, Lady Louise Edwards, Louisville, Ky., Nancy Robins and Jerry Smith.

Friends will regret to learn that Mrs. John Churchman is ill at her home on N. Elm street.

Father George F. X. Strassner and Rev. Wallace R. Rogers left Friday for Grayson where they will hold services at the C. C. C. camp.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Daniel en route from their home in Oklahoma City from a visit with relatives in Corinth, Miss., arrived Friday afternoon for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Hancock.

Miss Elizabeth Bernier is spending the week end with relatives in Idabel, Okla.

Honoring her house guests, Miss Jane Doyle and Miss Corinne Ed. words of Little Rock, Miss Lynette McKemie entertained 16 couples at a most delightful dance Thursday evening at her home on W. Third street. Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening and tempting sandwiches were served with fruit punch.

Honoring the visiting girls of the younger set and in celebration of her eleventh birthday anniversary, Miss Marie Antonette Williams entertained a group of her young friends at a most enjoyable bunting party Wednesday evening at her home on East Third street. A most tempting picnic supper was enjoyed and a delightful breakfast was enjoyed Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Slusser spent Saturday in Little Rock, the guests of Judge and Mrs. R. F. Milwee.

Atlanta Captures First-Half Flag

Texans Wins Final of Playoff Series by 12 to 11 Here

Atlanta settled the first-half pennant dispute here Thursday afternoon with a 12 to 11 victory over the Storks. It was the fourth and final game of the series, a fifth contest not being necessary.

Hope took the first game of the play-off series, but dropped the last three. Both teams continued to hit hard, which has been a feature throughout the series, Hoep getting 13 Afeties and Atlanta 12.

Four errors on the part of the Stork players was a big factor in the Atlanta scoring. Miscues were marked up against Riley, C. Schooley, D. Wells and B. Wells.

Atlanta took the lead from the start and held it until the last of the seventh, the Storks tying it up with a run. The eighth inning was scoreless, but Atlanta put over the winning run in their half of the ninth.

Auto License Fees Above 2 Millions

Collections to July 15th Exceed Total for Last Year

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Exceeding the 2-million-dollar mark for the first time in two years motor vehicle license fees were said Friday by the State Revenue Department to have already passed by more than $300,000 the total collected last year.

Collections up to July 15 amounted to $2,010,971, and almost 180,000 individual licenses have been issued.

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

SO!!! YOU'VE DECIDED NOT TO GO THRU WITH OUR MARRIAGE!!! YOU THINK YOU CAN DROP ME WHENEVER YOU—

NOW, AGATHA—THERE'S NO NEED OF BEING NASTY ABOUT IT

NASTY, INDEED! YOU WANT TO HOLD ME UP TO RIDICULE BEFORE MY FRIENDS, CAUSE A SCANDAL, AS WELL AS A LOT OF BACKSTAIR GOSSIP, AND ALL BECAUSE OF A CHEAP LITTLE BLONDE—

WE'LL LEAVE HER OUT OF IT, IF YOU DON'T MIND

All Explained

PRESTO! THAT LINKED BABE WITH LADRONI, SHE WAS THE TIP OFF, A CROOK. YET SHE CLAIMED TO BE ENGAGED TO MARRY YOUR DAD.

HOWEVER, HER "ENGAGEMENT" RING WAS REALLY A DINER RING, AND FAR TOO BIG. OBVIOUSLY, SHE HAD STOLEN THE BIRTHDAY PRESENT YOUR DAD HAD BOUGHT FOR YOU, AND THE MURDER WAS SOLVED.

Sour Cream Finds Many Good Uses In Baking

BY MARE E. DAGUE
NEA Staff Service Writer

We have all been through the unpleasant experience of finding that cream has "turned" and can't be used for the breakfast cereal. But this same sour cream which seemed such a tragedy at 7:30 can be turned into a real

'Pretty Boy' Floyd's Son on Stage

Cashing in on the notoriety of his father, "Pretty Boy" Floyd, the 9-year-old son of the Oklahoma outlaw, Charles Dempsey Floyd, is shown here with his mother at Oklahoma City as he arranged to start a stage tour, appearing with a film exposing modern rackets. The proceeds are to be used for the boy's education, his mother says.

asset at 9 if you use it right.

Cakes and cookies for instance, made with sour cream have unusual delicacy of flavor and perfection of mixture. Foreign cooks use in soups and meat sauces, salad dressings, cake fillings and frostings. Almost any course in the meal gains richness and flavor by the addition of sour cream.

Very little additional shortening is required when sour cream is used in cakes and cookies. There are two grades of sour cream and these two grades are sweet and heavy.

Measure Soda Carefully

On souring, the light cream separates into two layers. The fat rises to the top and the milk which was left in the cream settles to the bottom. If the cream is skimmed from the top it is the same as heavy cream, but if the top and bottom are stirred to gether the result is less rich and some other shortening is needed.

Remember the one-half teaspoon of soda is used with one cup of sour cream and be careful to measure accurately. The amount of baking powder ordinarily used is reduced one-half.

Heavy, solid cream is used to make pies or tart fillings, sour cream frosting and some salad dressings. Quick bread, cookies and puddings of cake-like texture can be made of light cream with a small amount of additional shortening.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Baked sweet apples, cereal, cream, cinnamon toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Tomatoes stuffed with corn and peppers, cheese biscuits, watermelon cones, milk, tea.

DINNER: Salmon loaf, creamed wax beans, cucumber and lettuce salad, sour cream blueberry pie, milk, coffee.

Sour cream salad dressing is especially good with fruit salads and keeps well.

Sour Cream Salad Dressing

Two tablespoonsful melted butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon celery salt 1-8 teaspoon paprika, few grains cinnamon, 2 drops vanilla, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon water, yolks of two eggs, 1/2 cup heavy sour cream.

Mix and sift flour, salt, cinnamon, sugar, celery salt and paprika. Add to melted butter and stir thoroughly until blended. Stir in lemon juice, vinegar and water. Cook and stir over a low fire until thick and smooth. Remove from fire and stir in yolks of eggs. Let cool, chill cream and whip until firm. Add with vanilla to cooled mixture.

These seasonings, carefully selected and blended make a salad dressing for fruits. The omission of cinnamon and vanilla and the addition of onion juice and mustard produce dressing for use with vegetables and meats.

Foreign Sires Driving American Brothers Into Background

NEW YORK—Whatever the answer, foreign sires of running horses are at present driving their American brothers into eclipse. Breeders now cannot afford to overlook the achievements of certain progenitors of foreign birth. Sir Gallahad III, for example, the French stallion that got Gallant Fox, High Quest and many an other good one, such as Gallant Sir, Happy Gal, and Sir Thomas.

Foreign-bred horses or horses by foreign sires, have fastened virtually a choke hold on American racing. The great line of Fair Play appears to stay up with the outlanders. From this line came Peace Chance, Discovery and Mata Hari.

Until recently foreign tags meant little to American horsemen. They recalled Challenger II and Papyrus, and the efforts on this side of the French animal, Epinard. They remembered that save for Bonnie Scotland, Australian and Elipse—all imported during the Civil war period—no foreign stallions had been able to found an enduring line.

But things have changed, for instance Calveade, English bred, although he was born in this country, is the dominating factor in present 2-year-old racing. Possibly next best is Peace Chance. But the veteran New York handicapper, W. S. Vosburg, thought enough of Calveade's stablemate, High Quest, to handicap him higher than the mighty Equipose. Singing Wood, the sprinter that captured the world's richest event, the $100,000 Belmont Futurity last September and the Queens county handi-cap, is by the imported Boyel Minstrel. As a matter of fact, the first three to finish in the Belmonts Futurity were by aliens.

Among them Calveade, Singing Wood and High Quest already have garnered close to $250,000.

Bazaar, the filly which captured last year's rich Hopeful and other stakes, was, as was Calveade, imported "in utero" from Old Albion.

Starting with Reign Count a representative list of 15 great or near great horses of the past few years includes Equipose, Twenty Grand, Gallant Fox, Sun Beau, Whichone, Calveade, High Quest, Mate, Burgoon, Peace Chance, War Glory, Dark Secret, Gallant Knight and Gallant Sir.

Ten of these are by foreign progenitors, only Equipose, Burgoon, King, Peace Chance, Dark Secret and War Glory being American bred.

Looking over the list of mares, one might name Tred Avon, Top Flight, Mata Hari and one or two others. Tred Avon was by the imported Sir Greyhound, Top Flight by the imported Dis Dore.

Man o' War Still Tops

Nineteen stallions are standing in the United States at a published price or stud fee, of $1000 or more. Man o' War, held at private contract, and the imported Sun Brar are tops at $5000.

Eight of the 19 are imported, and Sun Brar has two of his off-spring on the list, Sir Beau at $3000 and Pompey at $1000. Sir Gallahad III was Gallant Fox standing at his own figure, $2000, and his own internationally known generator, Teddy, at $1000. Chicle has his son, Whichone on the list, both standing at $1000.

Depending on Viewpoint

Britons claim the stallions they send are not their best, and this often is the case.

Americans contend that foreign sires being of popular strains are given the choicest American mares, and that the American mares make the reputations of the English stallions.

Whatever the reason American breeders are no longer wont to hold the British horse in scorn.

Since becoming an independent state in 1831, Belgium has had but four kings.

The new airmail map as conceived by the Postoffice Department will cover 28,548 miles, an increase of 230 miles over the distance flown before cancellation of the contracts.

Camouflage artists in the United States Army Air Corps are busily engaged in devising new ways for hiding a plane from an enemy. Pilots at Randolph Field, Texas have been using a plane camouflaged to resemble the mesquite and sagebrush of the surrounding countryside.

A WEEK

It's just about as reasonable to try and do the Louvre in Paris in one day without a guide as it is to try to shop-and-save in Hope without the Hope Star Ads to steer you right. Sore feet and a headache in one case—sore feet and an empty pocketbook in the other. And nothing to show for your trouble but a buch of odds and ends.

Hope Star Ads guide you to what you want to buy, where you want to buy it, at the price you want to pay. If they didn't do just that these ads wouldn't be in this newspaper in the first place. For your desires, after all, aren't so very different from those of other value-wise Hope women. And most all of them read the Hope Star.

You'll save time, steps, temper and money if you let the Hope Star help you on every shopping trip.

Second Period of Weevils to Begin

Arkansas Expert Estimates Critical Moment Is Approaching

Dwight Isely, associate entomologist, University of Arkansas, sends the following information to Frank R. Stanley, county agent, of timely importance now relative to boll weevil and cotton leaf worm:

"I would expect the second period of infestation to begin soon. Perhaps it is already in progress in the most southern counties. It is during this second period (that is the infestation caused by weevils which mature this year) when heavy injury really begins."

"In the years when I was doing cotton dusting, I got my biggest returns from dusting during the last two weeks in July, that is, against weevils which are matured that season. The period of injury of the over-winter weevils, which begins when cotton starts squaring, is usually short."

"Of course, if it is extensive, some good may be gained by dusting. But at that time the plants are small and if hot dry weather follows the threatened outbreak may not materialize. As a result early dusting often fails to show results. However, if an outbreak is underway, by the middle of July the plants are larger and hot weather will not stop a weevil outbreak as abruptly. If Arkansas as a whole is having the hot dry weather that we are having here, I would not expect the weevil injury to be very great. On the other hand, rains can approach the critical period now."

"We usually have a first report of cotton weevil occurrence in Arkansas between July 15 and 20. I have a letter from Professor Harned, in charge of Cotton Insect Infestations in the Bureau of Entomology, that two generations of cotton worms had been observed in southeastern Texas."

Enemies Blamed for Moral Probe

Allen and Marsh Charge Frameup by Dissatisfied Movie Actors

LOS ANGELES, Calif. —(P)—Attorneys for Dave Allen and Gloria Marsh, charged with participation with June DeLong in an immoral party last April 26, began in earnest Wednesday their efforts to prove Allen was "framed" by enemies who sought to oust him as head of the Central Casting Corporation, which directs the employment of Hollywood's 17,000 film extras.

Jerry Geisler, representing Allen, summoned to the witness stand Blaney Matthews, chief special inspector for the district attorney's office. Matthews told of an interview he had had with Pat Harmon, motion picture "heavy" and one of the state's chief witnesses against Allen and Marsh.

The witness said he called Harmon to his office April 30 in connection with a complaint made against the actor by Allen.

"I asked him what the trouble was out there in Hollywood," Matthews testified, "and he told me he had been in the movie business for many years and was not getting the work to which he was entitled. He blamed Allen for this."

"He told me several days previously he had called on Allen at his office and Allen refused to see him. Later, he told me, he was standing on the sidewalk in front of the office, when two of Allen's associates came by."

"He admitted to me that he asked them if they were 'plug uglies' for Allen and if they were, his car was just around the corner, and that his 'old equalizer' was in it."

Harmon previously had denied from the witness stand that he had made any such statement concerning an "equalizer" meaning pistol or that he had discussed such a statement with Matthews.

Detective Lieut. Robert L. Griffin testified that Miss DeLong's apartment had been visited by Allen and Marsh the night of the alleged immoral party there, quoted the flaxen haired film extra as having told him she had discussed with Pat Harmon and Pearl O'Connell, both of whom have appeared at state's witnesses, the possibility of "getting Allen to her apartment."

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Elijah Hears God's Voice
Text: 1 Kings 19:18
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 22
BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of Advance

It is a strange and paradoxical fact, but oftentimes the hour of victory is the hour of danger. Apparent triumph frequently carries a sting. Remember the warning of St. Paul that those who were standing take heed lest they fall.

Elijah, in his zeal for the cause of what he believed to be true and pure religion, had achieved a great victory over Jezebel and the prophets of Baal. His victory could hardly have been more complete, and yet we find him broken-spirited and discouraged, seeking refuge from the elements and from his fellow man in a cave.

There was no moral collapse, such as comes to men at times when they have worn themselves out with their zeal even in a moral cause. The depression that Elijah suffered was spiritual, and it did not, apparently, affect his own relationship with God.

He was still strong in his own faith and in his own determination to follow the right, but in the intense action, when probably his physical strength had been spent, he was unable to set the proper value upon things.

He thought of himself as the only true prophet of God left, and he saw his own life betrayed and endangered. It was under these circumstances that the voice of the Lord came to him in the cave, telling him to go forth and stand before the Lord. If there is any vision that can come to strengthen and hearten a man, he is more likely to get it standing upon a mountain than hiding in a cave.

It was not long before Elijah had a tremendous vision. A great wind-storm rent the mountains and broke the rocks, and after the wind there came a great earthquake, and after the earthquake there was a fire, but not in the wind, earthquake or fire did Elijah hear the voice of the Lord, although he felt his presence.

But after all these manifestations came a still small voice inquiring concerning Elijah's trouble, giving him a commission to fulfill, that he should anoint new kings over Syria and Israel and Elisha as a prophet in his place.

Then came also, the mild rebuke of the still voice, reminding Elijah that there were still 7000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal.

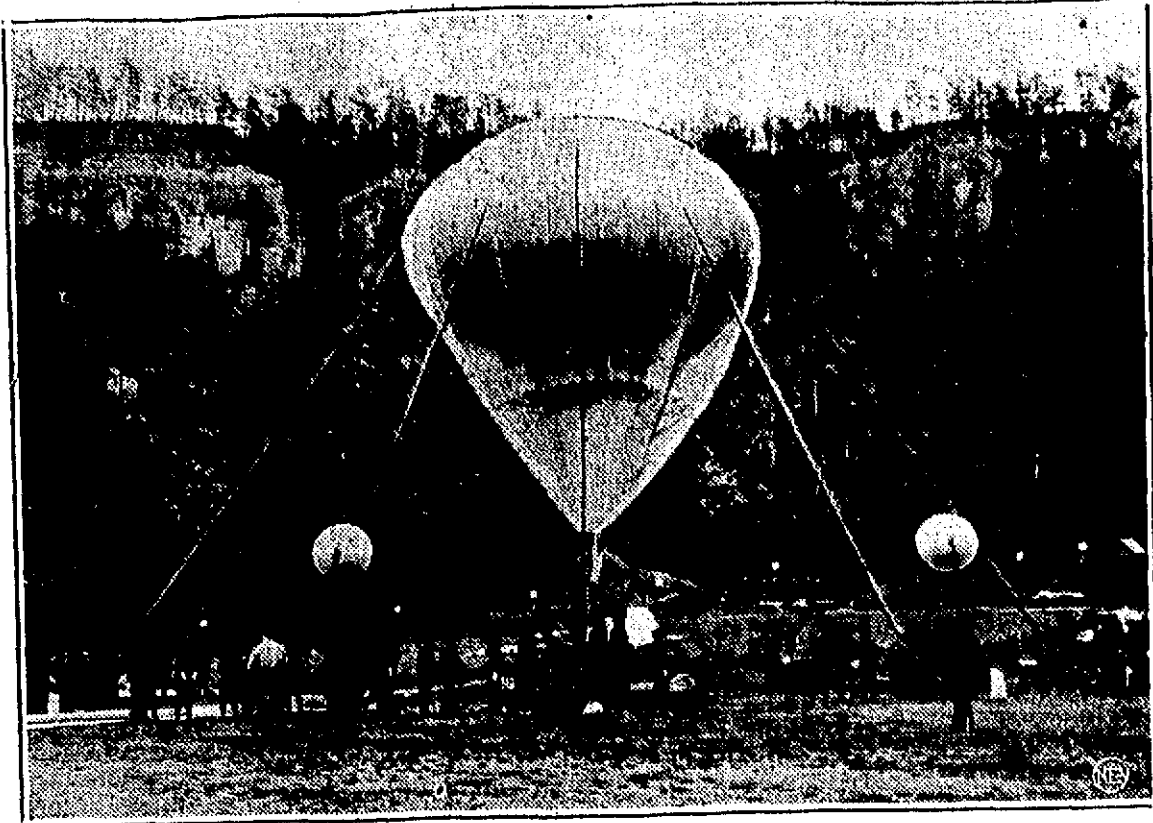

Elijah might have been saved this gloomy and desperate experience if he had only been able to see these 7000 faithful saints. How often we make similar misappraisals of the forces of right that surround us!

Either when victory triumphs or in victory over wrong and we are weakened by the struggle, it is the temporary way to whisper to us that the cause of truth and right is not as strong as we had supposed it to be. What is the cure for these moods of depression? There are two cures.

One is to get out of the cave of one's own depressed spirit. This was the way of the psalmist who commended with his soul, saying, "Why art thou cast down?" Why art thou disquieted within me?"

The other way is to get in the mountain vision, where God can reveal Himself to us and where we can find new hope in Him.

Test Proves Bowl Ideal Spot for Stratosphere Hop

Wisdom of selection of the natural bowl in the Black Hills of South Dakota for the stratosphere flight take-off was proved when Maj. W. E. Kepner and Capt. Orville Anderson ascended in the 35,000-cubic foot army balloon, shown here, to test air currents. The 37-minute flight was a success. The ground crew is shown at the ropes as the gas bag was inflated for the trial.

Order in the Court

A burglar's wife was being vigorously examined by the county attorney.

"Madam, you are the wife of this prisoner?"

"Yes."

"You knew he was a burglar when you married him?"

"Yes."

"May I ask you how you came to marry such an individual?"

"You may," snapped the witness.

"You see I was getting old and I had to choose between a burglar and a lawyer."

Hot Summer Needs Cool Laxative

In this hot weather, take this cool laxative that actually refreshes and never upsets. It's Peena-min, the delicious mint chewing gum laxative. All you taste is its delightful mint flavor, and all you swallow is the tasteful laxative ingredient that doctors regularly prescribe. And because you chew Peena-min, the flow of beneficial saliva juices is stimulated, and the laxative is distributed uniformly throughout the intestines to give natural, gentle but thorough action. Delay is dangerous, so today get back on schedule and stay there, with non-habit forming Peena-min.

250 Miles of Air Beacons in State

13 Rotating Beacons on Line Between Texarkana and Memphis

Every night in the State of Arkansas lights on more than 250 miles of Federal airways flash on to guide airmen safely on their journeys. These lights, established by the Bureau of Air Commerce of the Department of Commerce as a part of the federal system which extends into nearly every section of the country, consist of 13 airways rotating beacons at 10 to 15-mile intervals to outline the routes, and boundary lights in the 4 Department of Commerce intermediate landing fields which, in conjunction with other airports, are spaced 40 to 50 miles apart.

This state is served by the Dallas-Louisville lighted airway. The New Orleans-St. Louis airway which is now being surveyed will go through the extreme northeastern part of Arkansas, adding about 34 miles to the total airway mileage in the state.

As a part of the Federal Airways System in Arkansas, the Bureau of Air Commerce maintains a radio communication station at Little Rock for the broadcast of weather information to aircraft in flight and to airports not located on the airways. Also there are radio range beacons at Little Rock and Texarkana which provide directive signals to mark the courses for airmen flying while visibility is poor. There are two telewriter stations in the state at Little Rock and Texarkana which are connected by leased wires for the collection and transmission of aeronautical weather reports to the airports and the radio stations for broadcast. Department of Commerce intermediate landing fields for the emergency use of all pilots flying in Arkansas are available at Prescott, Malvern, Hazen and Forrest City. These fields are conditioned for the operation of aircraft, marked for day identification and are boundary lighted for night use. Caretakers are employed to see that the fields are always in proper condition.

Chevrolet Sales Best Since 1929

Greatest June in 5 Years—Best Single Month Since 1931

World production of Chevrolet cars during the month of June totaled 98,147 units, making the company's production for the first six months of this year 525,093 units or nearly 50 per cent greater than the first half of 1933, according to an announcement made by the officials of the Chevrolet Motor company.

Despite this obviously high production for the first half of 1934, there is still a shortage of Chevrolet cars in the field, officials stated. During the month of June more than a dozen solid trainload shipments were moved into as many key cities in various parts of the country in an effort to catch up on unfilled orders. Plans call for duplicating these shipments in additional cities during July.

Chevrolet's production maintained a steady pace during the early part of July. Figures released by company officials today showed that domestic and export production for the week ending July 11 totaled 23,089 units, a better daily average than was achieved in June.

Chevrolet's record-breaking sales continued their advance in June, shattering all monthly records since May 1931, and achieving the highest June total since 1929, officials of the Chevrolet Motor company announced. Retail sales for the month, as compiled from dealers' reports, were the basis of the announcement.

Murder Warrant for Oklahoma Boy

Formal Charge Filed in Maternity Death of Marian Mills

NORMAN, Okla. —(P)—A murder warrant intensified the hunt Wednesday night for Neal Myers, panicky college boy who fled the scene of Marian Mills' tragic death.

"We may have some information shortly as to the whereabouts of Neal Myers," said County Attorney Paul Updegraff as he filed the murder charge eight days after the death of Miss Mills, 20, University of Oklahoma beauty queen, allegedly the victim of an illegal attempt to prevent motherhood.

Rumors were that Myers had been seen in Brownsville and across the international boundary in Matamoros, Mexico.

Last Thursday Myers, 21, a pharmacy student, abandoned his car in Houston, Texas and fled on foot. Two days earlier he had frantically summoned a doctor to a little duplex apartment here. When the attending physician arrived, he found Miss Mills on a bed dead and Myers gone.

In the murder charge young Myers was accused of "an attempt to commit abortion by means of certain implements, to your informant unknown," and by the "use of certain medicines."

Authorities have been told by Mrs. Hazel Brown, 33, fraternity house cook and student confidante, who owned the apartment where the death occurred, that Myers and Miss Mills had been there for more than a day, attempting to prevent maternity by the use of a "quack remedy."

My Position on the Salary Act

There has been a good deal said about a county salary act. I want the people to know how I stand on this question. Two years ago the Hempstead County Taxpayers' League recommended the salaries of the various county officers, beginning August 1, 1932. I signed up and agreed to abide by this salary schedule, and have lived up to my agreement. Under this schedule, the salary of the assessor was fixed at $1800.00 a year, with $300.00 for necessary traveling expenses, which amounts in all to $175.00 a month; and this is all I have drawn since August 1, 1932. Under the law the assessor's salary is fixed at $3000.00 a year, or $250.00 a month with expenses, and I could have drawn that amount, but I have lived up to my agreement and have drawn only $150.00 a month salary and $25.00 a month for traveling expenses, or $175.00 a month in all.

Under this salary schedule as recommended by the League, the county clerk's salary was fixed at $1800.00 a year, with a salary of $1200.00 a year for his deputy, and $300.00 additional as long as he is required to make the tax books. It is my understanding that the Taxpayers' League met recently and adopted the same schedule as was adopted in 1932, and that this League proposes to initiate an act fixing the salaries of the county officers according to the 1932 schedule. I am willing and hereby agree, if I am elected clerk, to abide by said salary schedule and will only accept $1800.00 a year salary, with $300.00 additional as long as I am required to make the tax books, and that my deputy will receive $1200.00 a year, and this is all the salary I will accept, regardless of whether said act is initiated and adopted or not.
